

President Lincoln loved spending down time with his family outside. Willie and Tad, two of his sons, were both curious about the world around them.

What makes you curious when you're outside?